Amsterdam, The Netherlands; 11th March 2014 – AerData, the provider of software and services for the aviation industry announces that SMBC Aviation Capital (SMBC AC), has licensed STREAM aircraft records software and GEARS asset review system.

STREAM (Secure Technical Records for Electronic Asset Management), is the industry's foremost web-based solution used by some of the world's largest airlines, lessors and MROs to manage aircraft and engine records.

GEARS (Global Electronic Asset Review System), is a total asset review management tool designed with in-field experience and IT to ensure quality, consistency and efficiency in any asset review.

Commenting on the announcement, Mark Nieuwendijk, Managing Director of AerData said; "We are delighted to announce that another major lessor has chosen STREAM for the management of its technical documents. It is also a pleasure to see that SMBC AC has chosen GEARS, a product it has been trialing since late last year. GEARS will deliver SMBC AC standardized data collection and reporting across its inspection and audit program in an efficient manner."

Diarmuid Healy, Head of Technical Asset Management, SMBC Aviation Capital said; "We are pleased to announce our new working relationship with AerData through the use of their STREAM and GEARS systems. These systems will help to streamline processes in our business and assist our ambitious growth plans over the coming years."
